this issue of Violet is a bit (very) late in coming out due to complete and utter laziness on my part but also freaky stuff has been happening to me + I was scared that if I did the zine it would just be a total bitchy lump of hatred and paranoid shite ~ so, inner tranquility equals another issue Um, I get the feeling this zine is different from the other Violets, there is less about Riot grrrl in it than usual I guess that's because I've been so into my band rather than writing so less of that kinda thing has been in my head, but so what I think there's more personal stuff too, I hope that doesn't come across as egotistical, its about the most, y'know, relationships + stuff. anyway. enjoy.

SETS IN YOUR PLATE

I'm sorry to harp on so much about riot grrrl but there's some stuff I have to talk about. I feel like I have less of a right to talk about riot grrrl just now than I did a while ago just because I haven't written to anyone for a while and haven't sent off for many fanzines and stuff. Is it me being a lazy git or are less people putting out zines? Are things grinding to a halt? I think I don't really fit in that well anymore anyway, it seems some people really really hate me for slagging off Chris from Huggy Bear and Skinned Teen, not even really slagging them off - just saying that I personally did not like something they did. For FUCK SAKE, why should I have to like them - they live in London and have a nice little clique with tons of zines which tell them how ace they are - I live in a small village in Scotland and listen to Gary Numan! I see this whole scene down south that I just don't want to be a part of at all - of course there are some brilliant people like the people who do GIRLFRENZY, Chris and Loretta who do PIAD! which LUNG LEG^{} have a single on and a few others but for the most part it seems like TOW THE RIOT GRRRL LINE or your OUT. Fucknake - I went to London to see my friends bands LUNG LEG and POLICE CAT play at the Laurel Tree and just about everyone left after Police Cat. Police Cat had had a good write up in the music press by this time so obviously all these cool hip underground scenesters are just shits who believe the ex the Melody Maker says and didn't bother to stay for lung leg which are one of the only female bands in britain doing really brilliant original stuff. It makes me feel frustrated when I hear some new band that just sound like another 'riot grrrl' band. I'd be really impressed if Skinned Teen sounded like Suicide - there was just two of them and they used the cheapest cheeziest keyboards ever but still sound so sexy and scary and fresh while Skinned Teen nip my head. I feel so ~~want~~ bad because Layla is ~~has~~ really nice but it's time ~~now~~ for some honesty in this scene and if I'm the only person prepared to stand up ~~else~~ ^{else} I ~~can't~~ ^{can} play + sing + they are AMAZING!

george are pitchin' than that is very very sad indeed. But at the same time as I say this, it doesn't bother me at all cos I know I will always call myself a riot girl regardless to what anyone else does or if my tastes in music change and I end up playing in a string quartet. It's the name with queeroes, thank fuck I'm not gay but if I was I would have a hard time finding 'gasser core' bands I liked. I think we just have to get out of this idea that riot girl music should sound PUNK or ALTERNATIVE or INTERFERNANT cos these 'genres' are pretty much redundant in my eyes.

Misfits are one of my favourite bands of all time but I know they are just 3 chord punk rock and it is the emotion that makes them amazing - I don't want to make music like Misfits I just feel like emotion through lyrics or someone's voice is not for me - it has been done so much and it is a real challenge to convey feeling through music alone (through Reavens to Betsy I love). Why is having a sense of humour so reviled too? Banter is good for a band but I admire bands with no ~~sense~~ (or at least a warped) sense of humour. The fact that Black Sabbath are deadly serious is what makes them brilliant! Maybe some people are scared of being called pretentious if they admit that they are being deadly serious - I think I would have more respect for Hairy Bear if, when everyone accused them of being sofaced they got even more extreme and uncompromising, instead they tried to prove they had a sense of humour.

I've been reading Men In Love and it's made me think a lot about sex. I am completely and utterly confused by sex, it's just this huge big blob and I can't figure it out at all. I feel a bit wavy, but at the same time am totally in awe of people who have worked out to a pin point what turns them on. How can they be so sophisticated? Fatty is so good at masturbating that she managed to get a band A for History higher because she wanted while she studied! To be a foot fetishist or transvestite or into getting pissed on by 10 year old boys must mean you have a clear idea of what you are into - I don't know at all and it worries me a bit. I don't think I'm either dominant or submissive - but I guess if you're having really brilliant sex you do slip into these roles but they switch round all the time - oh, I dunno. I know I sometimes feel a bit guilty if I find things that you're SUPPOSED to think are sexy, sexy - like that song Warm Leatherette by The Normal - it is so obviously supposed to be a creepy, sexy song - and I do think it's creepy and sexy. My big tits - I like them, and older men - I like that too! I feel so uncool coz I fall for all these cheezy things. I don't feel any different from when I started to have sex either - aren't you supposed to get better at sex as you get older and learn stuff? I don't feel like I've learned anything! I now know what I really object to. It's just stupid & erratic. I know for sure that I never want to be with a person, as far as 'long term' relationships go, who is thinking over someone else the whole time. I was dumb enough to think if you told me how fat and dumpy I was all the time. He never said anything about my body except what a short, fat sexless girl I was and like a fucking idiot I put up with it because I thought he loved me and when he said these things he would always make out he was into me - it turned out he was fucking someone else so I was left with being an unattractive blob. But I hope I don't care because I really care + it's not about anything. It completely invades at the time but then the very thought of being with someone who when you are fucking is looking at you and thinking of someone else makes me feel sick. Christ, having sex with someone lets you find out so much more about them - it's an HONOUR to fuck someone and now they're so completely vulnerable! At the same time as not understanding sex, I'm a total wimp and always seem to fuck myself up over it - my life would be simple if I never had sex with anyone - it's not even as if I ruin my life or anything - I crave love much more than just sex but it still seems like + of the vulgar thing that runs my head. I think I would rather have a really intimate loving relationship rather than just a fuck. Maybe I mean for the best but love + sex is superdope for me -

Eroticism is the pornography of the rich.

The French writer JULIEN GREEN had a very interesting philosophy, he believed among other things that hate and betrayal are just as beautiful and valid emotions as love, that modern society is a featuring line - the only escape from it being willfulness and general decadence and best of all CRIME ENHANCES BEAUTY! One becomes beautiful through acts of violence, deviance and random hate becoming bourgeois both inner and outer through the most numerous acts - murder, rape and having gay sex.

"THIS IS THE EVIDENCE? DOES CRIME ENHANCE BEAUTY?
THIS IS THE EVIDENCE?"

GREEN himself - born to a whore in 1910, first conviction at 15, deserted the foreign legion, worked as a male prostitute and thief, when imprisoned in 1942 he started to write. He managed to get out of serving a ten year sentence due to repeated theft and burglary a second time because later in life he was involved with the BLACK PANTHERS and PAPUA NEW GUINEA guerrillas.

A diagram illustrating a network or system architecture. In the center, there is a point labeled "LORA LOGIC". From this central point, five lines extend outwards towards the corners of the image frame. At each of these five endpoints, there is another point also labeled "LORA LOGIC". The labels are rotated at different angles relative to the central point, suggesting a distributed network where each node is connected to a central logic point.

BUT BABES, WHAT IF THERE WERE NO MORE CHICKENS???

Have you ever seen Pepe - am I right? - he is about 10 weeks old & is one of our 3 new hens we have just put out to pasture. We now have 10 hens & 1 rooster. We intended to keep 10 hens but the 10th chick hatched & died a few days ago so we now have 9. Except that Egg and Faith May have. The reason is the pair of adult roosters have + the 10th chick died at around 10 weeks old in March of this year at 10 weeks old. Peppermint Take A Hike says it's too early to say whether Egg & Faith will hatch another chick or not. Whether we end up with 9 chicks or 10 chicks is still to be decided.

Ed's thoughts may

"No, the babies down here follow Ed's advice more than me, and I know the average time to hatch is 21 days. So if they hatch 2 weeks ago as of today, then the incubation period would be 21 days. The weather is cool & I don't think it's been very warm. I have been watching Egg & Faith closely and I see no signs of distress. I do know that they have been following Ed's advice and I think that's why they are doing well. By the late 6th and 7th we removed Egg, Pepe & the rooster from the coop so that there was less space. There were 10 chicks in the coop, but we removed 2 of them. One chick died, some got lost, and some got eaten by the dogs. I think we'll be fine."

It's far from true that there is no connection between the word ORS and the word OSIRIS. The mythological connection is very strong. The name OSIRIS is derived from the Egyptian word ASIR which means "the dead". The name ORS is derived from the Hebrew word ORSHEN which means "the dead". The story goes like this:

Demeter, the 'earth-mother' who was daughter called Persephone who was makes me so excited! Since one on your clitoris isn't supposed to be a particularly good idea as eventually it just doesn't work - i'm going to go for a good, symmetrical nipple job. it'll be more and expensive i know but it'll feel and look AWESOME - especially with what I've got planned for special occasions - for my own personal enjoyment i am going to get nice gold
